Overdraft Privilege Policy

An overdraft occurs when you do not have enough money in your account to cover a transaction, but we pay it anyway. Transactions that may overdraw your account include checks, in-person withdrawals, ATM withdrawals, or other electronic means. We are not obligated to pay any item presented for payment if your account does not contain sufficient funds.

We may approve your overdraft items within your current Overdraft Privilege limit as a non-contractual courtesy. Whether your overdrafts will be paid is discretionary and we reserve the right not to pay. For example, we typically do not pay overdrafts if your account is not in good standing, you are not making regular deposits, or you have too many overdrafts. Your overdrawn balance will include any fees charged against the account.

When we advance money as part of your Overdraft Privilege, or pay or return an item that causes an overdraft, we use your ledger balance. Ledger balance only includes transactions that have posted to your account. The ledger balance does not include outstanding transactions that have not yet cleared or electronic transactions that have been authorized but which are still pending.

We will pay overdraft items for checks, in-person withdrawals, and ACH transactions. Any electronic balance provided to you during a balance inquiry will not reflect your Overdraft Privilege limit.

We generally pay electronic withdrawals and ACH withdrawals first based on electronic transaction type, in order from lowest to highest dollar amount. We then pay checks in check number order, per the bank's policy. The payment order of items may create multiple overdraft items during a single banking day. If this occurs, you will be charged an Overdraft Fee of $32.00 for each overdraft item paid up to a maximum fee of $96.00 per day. Normally, we will not approve an overdraft for you in excess of the predetermined amount assigned to your account type. Please note that the amount of the overdraft plus the bank's Overdraft Fee of $32.00 per item or $96.00 daily maximum fee will be deducted from the Overdraft Privilege limit.

Any item that creates an overdraft balance of $10.00 or less in a checking account will not be assessed a fee.

We may refuse to pay an overdraft item at any time even if we have previously paid overdrafts for you. A Returned Item Fee of $32.00 per item, each time an item is presented, will be charged. You will be notified of any overdraft items paid or returned that you may have, however, we have no obligation to notify you before we pay or return any item.

If we overdraw your account, you agree to repay us immediately, without notice or demand from us. We may use deposits you, or others, make to your account to pay any overdrafts, fees and other amounts you owe us prior to posting other debits, which may result in additional overdraft item fees. If there is an overdraft on an account with more than one owner on the signature card, each owner and agent, if applicable, shall be jointly and severally liable for all overdrafts inclusive of fees.

If you decide to not participate in the Overdraft Privilege program, any overdrawn balance you may have on your account is your responsibility to cover. If you would like to have this service removed, please contact your personal banker or our Client Support Team at (608) 223-3000 or toll free at (855) 256-7328.

Overdraft Privilege is not to be viewed as an encouragement to overdraw your account. In order to avoid fees, manage your account responsibly and make sure that your account always contains enough funds to cover all of your items and associated fees.

Keeping track of your balance is important. You can review your balance in a number of ways including reviewing your balance online, accessing your account information by phone, visiting one of our branches or receiving balance alerts via text. In addition, you should reconcile your account regularly.

LIMITATIONS: Lake Ridge Bank reserves the right to limit participation and discontinue this service without prior notice.
